EL PASO COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE | 1st Quarter 2023

Quick Tip:

A well-groomed home may be less susceptible to crime. Make it a habit to care for the exterior of your house and to secure your valuables in a garage or outside storage area. Exterior maintenance, both of your house and yard areas, illustrates residents care for and take pride in their personal property. Keep your porch and patio lights on during evening hours as another deterrent to burglaries.

40th Annual National Night Out Event

It's that time of year again!! The National Night Out season is underway, and this year's date is set for Tuesday August 1st, 2023 from 6:00 PM – 8:00 PM. National Night Out (NNO) is an annual event which promotes crime prevention and drug prevention in communities across the country. The event's recurring theme is: "Give neighborhood crime and drugs a going away party." The El Paso County Sheriff's Office and the National Association of Town Watch is excited to support this nationwide event in a visible presence promoting the prevention of crime within residential neighborhoods.

The concept is simple. Turn on your porch and patio lights and come outside to join your neighbors to demonstrate a show of solidarity and strength. This event is an effective way for citizens to send the message to criminals that they will not tolerate crime in their neighborhoods. It is also a great way to welcome new residents to the area and help them get to know their neighbors.

POLICE • COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS

In addition to the symbolic act of turning on porch and patio lights, residents can hold a block party, barbecue, neighborhood walk or other activity to show their participation. The Sheriff's Office encourages all residents of unincorporated El Paso County to plan an event and let us know about it. On Tuesday August 1st between 6:00 PM – 8:00 PM, Sheriff's Office employees will be traveling around El Paso County to attend neighborhood celebrations. If you are having an event, please notify the Crime Prevention Coordinator at 719-520-7151 or neighborhoodwatch@elpasoco.com by Monday July 3rd so we can schedule a representative to attend your event. Numerous emails and Nextdoor postings will also be sent as a reminder.

As previously mentioned, this event is supported by the National Association of Town Watch (NATW). NATW is a non-profit organization dedicated to enhancing the communities in which we live. National Association of Town Watch introduced National Night Out in August of 1984. At that time, over two million neighbors in 400 communities across 23 states participated. The following is an excerpt from National Association of Town Watch explaining the National Night Out philosophy:

"National Night Out is an annual community-building campaign that promotes police-community partnerships and neighborhood camaraderie to make our neighborhoods safer, more caring places to live. National Night Out enhances the relationship between neighbors and law enforcement while bringing back a true sense of community. Furthermore, it provides a great opportunity to bring police and neighbors together under positive circumstances. Neighborhoods across the nation host block parties, festivals, parades, cookouts and various other community events with safety demonstrations, seminars, youth events, visits from emergency personnel, exhibits and much, much more.” National Night Out has shown tremendous growth and support since its inception in 1984. Currently, National Night Out is celebrated by over 38 million neighbors across 16 thousand communities from all 50 states, U.S. territories and military bases worldwide.

Catalytic Converter Thefts

The following article was written by Becky Sullivan from NPR radio in Kansas City. El Paso County, and the Nation, is currently experiencing a huge rise in catalytic converter thefts. The below article briefly discusses how these thefts occur, how to prevent yourself from becoming a victim, and furthermore, possible replacement/insurance options:

How can car owners protect themselves from the wave of catalytic converter theft that has swept the country? Claims for stolen catalytic converters doubled in the year ending June 2022, according to State Farm, the largest auto insurer in the U.S., whose customers reported more than 43,200 stolen converters that year.

And since 2019, converter theft has risen 1,215%, according to the National Insurance Crime Bureau, an industry group that tracks insurance-related crimes. On Wednesday, the Department of Justice announced the arrest of 21 people in connection with a crime ring accused of making $545 million by trafficking stolen catalytic converters.

Catalytic converters – which helps a car clean its exhaust – have become a target for theft in large part because of the price of precious metals, like palladium and platinum, that are used in the parts. And, crucially, their location on the exterior of a car’s underside makes them easy to steal, David Glawe of the NCIB told NPR earlier this year. Stealing a converter takes just a few minutes and a battery-operated saw. “You slide under the car, slice through your exhaust system, and you’re in and out usually within 30 seconds to a minute,” Glawe said. Especially at risk are cars with enough tire clearance for a thief to easily slide underneath, like SUVs and pickup trucks. Hybrids are also attractive targets because their converters contain even more precious metals.

Replacing a stolen converter can cost thousands. Here are some precautions you can take:

How can I protect my car from catalytic converter theft?

Insurance companies, mechanics and police departments have recommended a wide range of anti-theft measures designed to deter a would-be thief. “It’s a holistic approach,” said Glawe. The simplest solution is to keep your car away from public access when you’re not using it. If you have access to a garage, keep your car there. Those without a garage should try to park their car in a well-lit area, or somewhere you can install a security camera. But even a garage might not be enough to protect your car. Public parking spots of all kinds have become a target for daytime theft, the Institute of Scrap Recycling Industries, a recycling industry trade group, has warned. “[At] hospitals, it’s happening because people go to the hospital and either park and visit, or they’re in the hospital for a long period of time, and their car sits there,” said Todd Foreman, the group’s director of law enforcement outreach. “It’s happening to big trucks, to churches.” Some cities have hosted workshops in which car owners can get their vehicle identification numbers engraved on their catalytic converter for free – an indication to would-be buyers that the converter has been stolen. Foreman also recommends painting your converter with brightly colored, high-temperature paint, which can put off a thief who’d have to scrape it all off before selling. “If they climb under a car and see it’s spray-painted,” he said, “they know they’re more likely to be caught stealing those catalytic converters.” Other solutions might cost a bit of money: Owners can attach alarm systems that are triggered by the vibration of a thief’s saw. Other, more expensive anti-theft devices are designed to make a converter make more cumbersome to remove. Mechanics can also weld on metal plates or rebar to shield the converter.

What should I do if it’s been stolen?

If your converter has been stolen, you’re likely to notice right away: Without the converter, your car will be much noisier than usual. Most cars will run without a catalytic converter, though it’s inadvisable to do so for longer than necessary. Because the purpose of a catalytic converter is to reduce harmful emissions, cars without one will pollute much more heavily than an intact car, and you could fail an emissions inspection in states that require them. When thieves use a saw to remove a catalytic converter, they can also cause damage to nearby parts of your car, like the alternator or fuel lines. It’s best to get your car checked out by a mechanic as soon as possible. And check your car insurance. Comprehensive coverage on an auto insurance policy will cover damage to your car that occurs outside of a collision – including theft.

Neighborhood Watch

A neighborhood watch program is easy to establish, simply by getting to know your neighbors within your neighborhood. In a Neighborhood Watch community, neighbors keep watch on each other’s homes/property’s and are encouraged to report any suspicious activity to either the Sheriff’s Office, Crime Prevention Coordinator or the El Paso County Sheriff’s Office dispatch center. As one of the most successful community/law enforcement partnerships in the United States, this program aids law enforcement by creating a closer sense of community among citizens and furthermore builds a strong relationship with Sheriff’s Office deputies. Neighbors who know each other become the Sheriff’s Office “eyes and ears” within that community and develop an awareness of unusual circumstances and suspicious behaviors. To learn more about the program, please contact the Crime Prevention Coordinator at 719-520-7151 to schedule a meeting or go to www.epcsheriffsoffice.com under the Community tab for further details.

Register for the El Paso-Teller County Emergency Notification System (or Reverse 911). This system is used to advise residents of any situation that threatens harm to life and/or property or is deemed dangerous by officials. This could be man-made disasters, crime, pandemics and hazardous materials incidents, missing persons, evacuation notifications, neighborhood emergencies and similar important issues. To register for this service or for more information go to www.elpasoteller911.org.

Schedule the Crime Prevention Coordinator to come to your residence and conduct a CPTED evaluation (Crime Prevention through Environmental Design). This evaluation is a free service and takes about 30 minutes to complete. A few of the items evaluated are lights, locks, landscape, and security areas. This evaluation will give you "options to consider" to make your residence more secure.
